

[Macy, Louise Groat]

WELL KNOWN HUDSON WOMAN DIED TUESDAY

Mrs. Louise Groat Macy, widow of Charles C. Macy, died at her home on Union St. Tuesday after a long illness which she bore with Christian fortitude. She was in her 86th year and had survived by sixteen years her husband, who was cashier of the Farmers' National Bank in this city.

In spite of failing health she kept alive the spirit of youth and always showed a keen interest in the welfare of her friends. She was devout and unselfish and possessed of a kindly courtesy that endeared her to all who came within the charm of her presence.

Mrs. Macy was a member of the Universalist church of this city and as long as her years permitted she was an active worker in church circles. She was also a valuable member of the Board of Managers of the Hudson Home for the Aged.

One son, Richard Clark Macy, of Hudson, and one sister, Mrs. Josephine Hubbel, of Boston, survive her as do four nephews, Rob't. W. Evans and Cornelius H. Evans of this city, Dr. George C. Hubbel, of Pittsfield, and Dr. Edward Hubbel, of Boston.
