

[Ophelia Plumb]

DEATHS.

At Cortland, April 20th, Miss OPHELIA PLUMB, aged 22. Miss P. suffered for a long time with that prevailing disease of our land, consumption. For a number of months before her death she became satisfied that she could not remain long; and although I can not say she had no desire to live, yet her prayer was to be resigned to the will of her heavenly Father. Her funeral was attended at the Universalist church in Cortland, where a large and sympathising congregation gave evidence of their respect for the deceased. Sermon by
